Hi, Gilbert --

I'm really grateful that you expressed an interest in contributing to the PRC site redesign. We are writing up a 10% salary supplement agreement that will kick in to support this work.

We haven't made any progress on this so far. Anthony did some work on Octopus but it's not aligned with the vision we have for the page. I'm still waiting to hear from designers for TREC, but I think they are mostly actually backend anyway. I am forwarding the email below with my notes on site contents.

Here are some other resources/remarks:

AI tools for sitemap+wireframing, might be helpful to get things moving:

PSU specific tools/frameworks:

- Drupal + syndication
- Logos, campus photos etc: www.pdx.edu/university-communications/

here are my notes on things the website should include (unstructured list) and a possible organization (pages)

possible pages, into which the contents could go

- front page
- directory of expertise -- faculty/staff/students directory, with links and office contact info
- main population and housing data landing page -- all PRC generated; jumpoff point/disambiguation between estimates, forecasts, census data.
- population estimates -- historical and current data, maps, links to LOC, schedule, press releases, mailing list, methodology, contact for challenging/updating data, link to AHUPS
- population forecasts -- previous and latest forecasts, maps, schedule, program info, mailing list, methodology, event calendar,

\-- housing data page-- info on AHUPS, GQ surveys, and results
-- census page -- info on census, acs, etc. lots of contents, and not our data, so separate page.
-- sponsored projects -- example clients, reports; school forecasts, special estimates, etc.; solicitation/data request
-- page about services for policy research and training -- e.g. working

Not everything is allocated in the above scenario, however. Here is a list of individual items that have to be slotted in somewhere:

unstructured contents:

-- staff/faculty: photos and biosketches and links to cv and publications list
-- mission statement/history
-- pdxscholar reports
-- training information: grad certificate, on-site, videos from us and uscb e.g. census academy
-- REALD population estimates
-- school forecasts (w/link to pdxscholar, or library where they exist)
-- special estimates (w/links to data)
-- data profiles -- neighborhoods, etc.
-- legislative asks -- eg SOS language, REALD, etc.,
-- maps -- eg redistricting, DOJ maps, etc. -- cartography jobs that may pass through to Randy
-- state census data extracts -- downloads or deeplinks
-- news and conference proceedings from SDC annual meeting
-- info on census data sources
-- historical data for oregon that doesn't exist elsewhere, e.g. 1950-1980 census
-- past versions of city/ugb boundaries (from dlcd and pegacus)
-- historical estimates
-- housing/gq data survey page
-- latest postcensal estimates
-- oregon life tables and fertility data
-- press releases
-- PRC featured in news
-- mailing list subscriptions management (join/leave)
-- project solicitation/data request form
-- latest forecasts reports
-- hisotrical forecasts reports
-- forecast datasets and tools
-- contact information (address/deliveries/fax, etc)

Hi Ethan, I'm happy to take on this as Civic Life being settled by the end of Jun and my conferences for this year are completed.

My flight back to portland is in few hours and we can have a discussion about this Friday or Monday. Talk to you soon.

Gratitude

Gilbert M.
